Process Confirmation

A method of scheduling the check, audit or confirmation of a given item in a structured time bound way.

Aimed at
Leadership of all levels.

How
By calculating and setting the frequency of a check and visualising using a simple T card system. Checks can be daily, weekly, monthly and must be linked to standards, linked to failure rate and frequency.

Outputs
Regular check intervals for all key business driven activities.

Benefits
Constant focus on check items.
Confirmation of countermeasure status.
Remove the need for historical knowledge of issues.
